Master of Marketing

In today's ultra-competitive market where customers have a huge variety of products and services to choose from – and access to extensive information to make decisions – companies are challenged to differentiate their offerings. In this evolving battleground, marketers have to be fully equipped with the necessary knowledge and tools to master the market.

Designed in consultation with industry, this degree takes a practical, applied approach to teaching and learning, and will enable you to work in a team, identify opportunities and creatively solve business problems. It will provide you with the knowledge, skills and professional attributes you'll need to advance your career in the rapidly changing world of marketing.

Macquarie Business School is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), so you'll be studying with a globally recognised institution. AACSB recognises the School wide focus on excellence in teaching, research, curriculum development and student learning.

Master of Finance

Finance – the study of financial institutions, markets and instruments, and their effect on the flow of funds within the economy – is a fast-paced and challenging field. Those with expertise in the field are often involved in an organisation's top-level planning processes, as the financial advice they provide allows management to determine how best to meet revenue and profit goals, and company objectives to ensure growth.

This comprehensive, flexible and career-oriented degree has been designed to meet the needs of employers who are seeking finance professionals with highly practical skills. You'll learn how to apply the advanced technical skills required to examine, interpret and appraise a range of financial information and market conditions. You'll study recent developments and issues in banking and finance, and professional practice – with a particular focus on ethical, social, regulatory, economic, sustainability and global perspectives. And you'll conduct independent research and exercise professional judgement in solving complex banking and financial problems.
